Dear IBHRE Leader,

Thank you for your commitment to serve as a leadership representative for the International Board of Heart Rhythm Examiners (IBHRE). Whether you are new or a long-time leader, it is important to maintain a solid understanding of how IBHRE is governed and how its programs are administered.

This handbook is a guide and reference to the governance process and roles of IBHRE leaders. This document does not fully represent the Bylaws and the powers of the corporation or of its Directors and officers, nor all matters concerning the conduct and regulation of the affairs of the corporation. For more comprehensive information regarding volunteer roles, ethics, liabilities, and regulations, please refer to the Bylaws or IBHRE staff.

The IBHRE certification is the official recognition of achievement, expertise, and clinical judgment in the specialty practice of cardiac rhythm device therapy and cardiac electrophysiology (EP). IBHRE certified specialists include more than 9,000 distinguished physicians and allied professionals who have been assessed on the scientific foundation, clinical skills, and technical knowledge required to provide and facilitate safe quality patient care in the management of arrhythmias.

IBHRE’s success is a direct result of the support of leadership, health care employers, and the IBHRE certified specialists who, through their unyielding pursuit of excellence, have advanced both the practice and the profession of cardiac rhythm management. Together, we will continue to build and strengthen IBHRE and its certification programs.

Once again, thank you.

Sincerely,

Tracy Kane Lofty, MSA, CAE

Part I: The Road to Excellence
OVERVIEW

Since 1985, IBHRE has set the standard for global certification in heart rhythm management. IBHRE offers competency certification to physicians and allied professionals to provide quality patient care in cardiac pacing and electrophysiology. Certifications offered are:

- Certified Cardiac Device Specialist (CCDS)
- Certified Electrophysiology Specialist (CEPS)
- Certified Electrophysiology Specialist—Adult (CEPS-A)
- Certified Electrophysiology Specialist—Pediatric (CEPS-P)

IBHRE is a 501c6 organization. As such, it adheres to best practices of organizational management and functions as its own entity.

IBHRE’s certification programs adhere to international standards and are accredited through ISO/IEC 17024:2012 by the American National Standards Institute (ANSI).

Organizational Calendar

The fiscal year of IBHRE begins on October 1 and ends on September 30. The recruitment, nomination and subsequent appointment of leadership are conducted annually from January to March. Newly appointed volunteer leaders assume office June 1 following the annual Board of Directors (BoD) meeting in May; terms end May 31. Approval by the HRS Board of Trustees is required for BoD positions.

Board of Directors

The affairs of IBHRE are managed by the Board of Directors (BoD) who have and may exercise the powers of the organization. It is the ultimate governing authority of IBHRE and its mission is to govern IBHRE, protect the organization’s image and assets, and be the moral voice of those certified. In managing the affairs of the corporation, the Board of Directors shall at all times act in the best interests of the corporation to further its purposes and mission, and all actions with respect to the formulation and administration of examinations and certification of examinees shall be independent of outside influences of industry or any other organization.

Committees

The Board of Directors nominates and appoints members of the IBHRE Committees. Committees are responsible for carrying out specific organizational functions such as developing content and setting standards for certification examinations. Current, active committees consist of:

- Cardiac Pacing Test Writing Committee
- Allied Electrophysiology Test Writing Committee
- Physician Electrophysiology Test Writing Committee
- Review and Appeals Committee
- Finance Committee
Task Forces

The Board of Directors may approve the appointment of temporary task forces to address a specific issue in a focused manner and for a defined time period. Task forces are assembled on an ad hoc basis and are typically appointed for a term of one year.

IBHRE’S GUIDING PRINCIPLES GOVERNING LEADERSHIP APPOINTMENTS

General Principles

Equitable Distribution. Leadership appointments with IBHRE are limited and highly-valued. Committee, subcommittee and task force appointments should be distributed as equitably as possible, to ensure a manageable workload for individuals, expand opportunities for volunteer engagement, and avoid perceptions of favoritism.

Expertise. Appointments are made primarily based on expertise. Secondary considerations may include leadership development, succession planning, continuity and willingness to make the necessary time commitment.

Diversity. Wherever possible, appointments should reflect a diverse mix of backgrounds, occupations, demographics (geography, ethnicity, gender), and interpersonal communication and problem-solving styles. Other considerations include requirements identified in the formal charge, and factors such as the length of IBHRE service and experience with non-IBHRE organizations.

Terms. Terms should be staggered to maintain the targeted mix of expertise and diversity, to the extent possible. Individuals should be informed of the length of their terms at the time of their appointments.

Conduct. Leaders conduct affects the credibility of the IBHRE and the effectiveness of its governance structure. Committee and Task Force Chairs and Staff Liaisons are expected to monitor leadership disclosures, participation and performance, and to take appropriate action, including recommending the removal of an individual to the Board mid-term, or non-reappointment.

Reappointment. Rotating assignments benefits individuals (by enlarging their understanding of the IBHRE and bringing them into contact with new colleagues) and committees (by providing fresh perspectives and energy). Reappointment is not automatic and should be considered in the context of this guidance document, especially equity, expertise, diversity and performance.

Succession. Board officers will be considered for the leadership succession, followed by directors, committees and task forces.

Consultation. The Board President should consult broadly about the current status and future resource needs of committees and task forces, and the performance and potential of prospective appointees. Consultation should include the President, Executive Director, Chairs, Staff Liaisons, and leadership database.

Transparency. Information about leadership opportunities, qualifications, and the appointment making process should be easy to access and clearly communicated by leaders of IBHRE and staff.
Other Considerations

Size and Composition. Sizes for committee and task force should generally be stated in ranges, to provide flexibility. Entities that typically conduct business by voting should have an odd number of members to break tie votes. Operating committees and task forces should have a mix of directors and non-directors where appropriate.

Board Liaisons. A Board Liaison should be assigned to each operating committee and task force. The Board Liaison role is distinct from the role of a committee member, as defined in their respective job descriptions.

Directors. In general, Directors may have one or two assignments, in addition to their Board Liaison appointment.

Officers. In general, Officers may be assigned to committees or task forces outside their ex officio appointments where they have specific expertise or experience that is unavailable in other subject matter experts.

Vice Chairs. Where applicable, committees and task forces can have a Vice Chair to assist the Chair with committee management and leadership development.

Dr. Seymour Furman was the first to recognize the usefulness of pacing the heart endocardially, which ultimately led to the development of an entirely new discipline of clinical cardiac electrophysiology.

After serving as a naval surgeon in the early 1960s, he embarked on a clinical career at Montefiore Medical Center where he directed the pacemaker program until 1994. He also became a Professor of Medicine and Surgery at the Albert Einstein College of Medicine. A pioneer in cardiac rhythm management, much of his work was supported by the National Institutes of Health leading to the development of clinical cardiac electrophysiology.

Among his contributions were the founding of some of the earliest pacemaker clinics, the demonstration that mercury-zinc cells destroy pacemaker circuitry, and the establishment of a database and statistical analysis of patient and hardware survival. The awards for his work are numerous, including: Distinguished Service Award from Intersociety Commission for Heart Disease Resources; Pioneer in Pacing Award; and Distinguished Scientist Award from the ACC, among many others.

His work in medicine was rivaled by his service in countless organizations. In 1977, he co-founded, along with J. Warren Harthorne, Dryden Morse, and Victor Parsonnet, the North American Society of Pacing and Electrophysiology (NASPE), eventually becoming its president in 1981. In 1984, he conceptualized the need for competency certification exams. On October 11, 1984, Past Presidents of NASPE met concerning the design of a certification exam, and they agreed that this initiative should be pursued. In 1985, this effort would become NASPExAM, now IBHRE. He acted as President of NASPExAM through 1998.

Dr. Furman was a prolific academic writer as well. He published over 400 manuscripts and book chapters, over 100 editorials in PACE, and over 800 abstracts. He also gave over 1000 oral presentations. He coauthored the first American book on cardiac pacing, titled “A Practice of Cardiac Pacing”, being published in three successive editions.

Not only was he an excellent scientist, Dr. Furman also had a loving family. A father of three, he was married for more than 45 years. Dr. Furman remained an active physician until his death on February 20, 2006. The cause of death was due to complications of cardiovascular disease.

IBHRE OVERVIEW and BACKGROUND

IBHRE Overview

Since its inception, the International Board of Heart Rhythm Examiners (IBHRE) has placed significant emphasis on the academic professionalism and competency of standards of physician and allied healthcare practitioners. Accordingly, the organization has established a solid reputation and is widely regarded as an international model for competency testing in cardiac rhythm device therapy and cardiac electrophysiology.

Electrophysiology (EP) and cardiac rhythm device therapy is an expanding subspecialty involving a diverse range of practicing professionals: physicians, nurses, clinical specialists, technologists, physiologists, engineers and scientists. There are targeted educational and competency pathways for physicians, however for the non-physician groups, these educational pathways are varied and remain unique to the individual discipline.

As a leader in heart rhythm certification, IBHRE must uphold its reputation and find ways to not only perform well, but effectively engage in planning of the envisioned future through goal-setting and program development by way of:

- Achieving Impact: Making progress toward the organization’s goals and delivering measurable results and outcomes
- Setting the Agenda: Defining the organization’s vision, mission, specific goals and strategies, leadership structure, and overall approach to its work
- Managing Operations: Monitoring internal/external processes and effectively managing the organization’s human and financial resources

Background

Established in 1985 as NASPExAM, IBHRE® was the first testing organization founded to raise the level of professionalism and academic credibility in cardiac rhythm device therapy and EP. IBHRE offers the following unique certification programs for physicians and allied professionals designed to demonstrate competency in the worldwide practice of heart rhythm management:

- Certified Cardiac Device Specialist (CCDS)
• Certified Electrophysiology Specialist (CEPS)
• Certified Electrophysiology Specialist – Adult (CEPS-A)
• Certified Electrophysiology Specialist – Pediatric Cardiology (CEPS-P)

Successful completion of an IBHRE examination certifies that a practitioner has the minimum core knowledge in their respective sub-specialty. Achieving and maintaining IBHRE Certification is validation of a practitioner’s clinical and technical knowledge in essential areas of practice; affirmation of a practitioner’s ability to interpret and understand interventions and therapies administered to patients; and a measure of the critical competencies essential for safe, optimal care in the management of arrhythmias.

IBHRE has long recognized that global standardization of knowledge is critical for the advancement of the heart rhythm profession. IBHRE validates this position through a diverse body of international subject matter experts, the delivery of foreign language examinations, and through representation of its international certified professional-base. More than 9,000 individuals around the world have successfully passed IBHRE exams.
THE IBHRE STRATEGIC PLAN

IBHRE’s Strategic Plan is an evolving document generally with a three year life span. The Board’s vision and the financial state of the organization may determine what strategic goals take precedence. The strategic plan addresses IBHRE’s core values, its desired future, assumptions and opportunities. This document provides a platform to continually improve the organization through the Board’s annual identification of strategic priorities, an understanding of the organization’s weaknesses and a clear vision of where the organization is headed.

IBHRE’S CORE IDEOLOGY & ENVISIONED FUTURE

The core ideology describes IBHRE’s consistent identity that transcends all changes related to its relevant environment. It consists of two elements — core purpose — IBHRE’s reason for being — and core values — essential and enduring principles that guide the organization. Envisioned future conveys a concrete yet unrealized vision for IBHRE. It consists of a bold goal — a clear and compelling catalyst that serves as a focal point for effort — and a vivid description — vibrant and engaging descriptions of what it will be like to achieve the bold goal.

Mission

To increase the heart rhythm professional’s knowledge in order to improve the quality of care delivered to our patients.

Founding Purpose

To design examinations for the fields of cardiac rhythm device therapy and cardiac electrophysiology; to administer examinations to members of healthcare professions for the purpose of measuring their skills in the area of cardiac rhythm device therapy and EP; and to encourage continuing competency through education, career enhancement, and professional development.
Core Organizational Values

- Excellence: Reach beyond the norm to conserve the organization’s gold standard of excellence in heart rhythm certification; and maintain fairness and integrity in the development, administration and promotion of the certification programs.

- Visionary Leadership: Secure strategically robust leaders to guide and protect the organization’s interests.

- Professionalism: Uphold the highest standards of professionalism; demonstrate transparency and respond effectively to meet the needs of certified professionals, leaders, partners and the public.

- Continuing Competency: Encourage continuing competency of the profession through examinations, education and professional development.

- Collaboration: Maintain our position of credibility through partner recognition, strategic alliances, and endorsement of the certification programs.

- Diversity: Foster development of a diverse community of highly skilled heart rhythm professionals and work to advance heart rhythm management as a global multidisciplinary standard.

Vision

To become the global leader in heart rhythm certification

Bold Goal

The preeminent leader in heart rhythm certification

Envisioned Future

The following summarizes the aspirations of IBHRE:

IBHRE is the preeminent leader and go-to organization for standardization and excellence in heart rhythm certification. IBHRE certification is a required assessment for all physicians and allied healthcare professionals involved in the management, treatment and care of patients who suffer from heart rhythm disorders. In the US the IBHRE certification is mandated by federal, state and local medical regulatory agencies.

Outside of the US, IBHRE is contracted with all healthcare ministry authorities to administer the certification program. Certified professionals benefit from meeting regulatory requirements, employer recognition, procedural privileges, increased pay and career advances. IBHRE supports advancement of the profession through continuing competency, employer/career resources, education programs, active patient networks and strong partnership alliances. IBHRE strives to forecast and stay on the cutting-edge of the profession by maintaining an evolving and content-rich certification program. US and international employers, patients and their healthcare providers refer to IBHRE as a credible source for information on critical tasks associated with heart rhythm management, core competencies required of the heart rhythm specialist, and verification of required credentials. Funding is steady as government grants and organizations world-wide support the program to confirm its existence for a rapidly growing industry of heart rhythm specialists. Leadership in the organization is strategically robust with the expertise, experience and qualities needed to capitalize on the organization’s strengths and opportunities; and cultivate its weaknesses and threats. As a result of IBHRE’s efforts, studies validate that IBHRE certified health-care specialists have incomparable outcomes next to non-certifieds in similar specialties. The scope of knowledge and quality of care associated with IBHRE professionals’ results in a lower number of deaths and the decreased suffering of patients with heart rhythm disorders.
